

South Calcutta Law College is the first law school in the state of Bengal to have introduced online courses within the curriculum for its students. You would be pleased to note that Enhelion will be bringing courses that are certified by SCLC and are completely practical oriented and will certainly help the students of your law school to become better lawyers. Our law firm partners which include the likes of Mr Rodney D Ryder, Managing Partner of Scriboard Advocates and Legal Consultants, Mr Bhumesh Verma, an ex Partner of Khaitan and Company and now Managing Partner of CorpComm Legal have meticulously prepared the content of our courses. Many lawyers from various other leading law firms also form the part of the Advisory Board of Enhelion and would from time to time interact with the students of South Calcutta Law College.

Enhelion in the recent part has collaborated with leading law schools such as Gujarat National Law University, Gandhinagar and have launched several online courses for the student community. The university has itself benefitted immensely from the online courses. Enhelion is also preparing top quality content for National Law University, Odisha and has alliances with leading private universities and institutions such as Jagran Lake City University, Alliance University, Karnavati University, Indore Institute of Law to name a few.

Online courses have become quite imperative in todays day and age, because of the huge gap between the academia and the profession. These online courses that we will bring to the students of South Calcutta Law College, would supplement the courses that are taught by your learned faculty in a very good way. The students would get a complete picture of theory as well as practice.

You would also be pleased to note that many students of our university partners, who have joined our online programmes have also got internship opportunities in leading law firms and have also worked with Enhelion as paid interns. A few of them also had the opportunity to work on projects related to Aviation Law, Sports Law and Legislative Drafting. We must point out the fact that some of the students were also part of the content team of a unique programme on Legislative Drafting for Gujarat National Law University and the project was recently praised by the Prime Minister himself.

12 students were also instrumental in launching a new startup named Educality - www.educality.com, an online legal encyclopedia.

We believe that having a close relationship with SCLC would definitely provided the above mentioned opportunities to your talented and knowledge hungry students.

Other advantages of our programmes include the following:

- A precise surgical understanding of the practical aspect of the law, which is very essential for any young law student
- Learning from and interacting with well known legal experts

- Self paced learning that will not be time consuming and interfering with your daily class schedule and academic routine
- Top 3 students would get a chance to intern in India's top law firms and work with Echelon
- Certificates from South Calcutta Law College and Enhelion after completion of the course. If the course[s] are with a law firm partner, then the certificate will also be certified by the concerned law firm as well.
- The university as a whole would be benefitted immensely as the industry would become aware of such courses being offered at the law school. Not many institutions in India have industry driven courses being offered to their students.
- The online courses would enhance the reputation of the law school; give more bandwidth to the placement cell in its recruitment process. These courses would also give more coverage to South Calcutta Law College not only in India but also in countries that have strong economic ties with India, because such courses are one of their kind in India and no other organization has ever tried to bring such courses on to the table.
